DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species:

- I. Claims 1-20, drawn to a method of operating a gaming device wherein game chips are placed according to a table in memory.
- II. Claims 21-40, drawn to a method of operating a gaming device wherein multiple tables are used to determine game chip placement.
- III. Claims 41-47, drawn to a method of gaming wherein no tables are used to determine game chip placement and a player is awarded based on a combination of values associated with positions having remaining player chips.
- IV. Claims 48-52, drawn to a method of gaming wherein no tables are used to determine game chip placement and a player is awarded based on a combination of values associated with each remaining player chip.
- V. Claims 53-69, drawn to a method of gaming wherein chips have multiple sides and points are associated individually with each of the positions, and wherein the points for positions occupied by at least one of the first side and second side chips are accumulated.
- VI. Claims 70-85, drawn to a method of gaming wherein chips have multiple sides and points are associated individually with and accumulated for at least one of the first side and second side chips that are placed onto positions of the board.

- VII. Claims 86-96, drawn to a method of gaming wherein chips have multiple sides and a plurality of different points are provided with the first side chips prior to placement of the chips, and wherein a player can selectively place first side chips with certain amounts of points onto desired positions.

The species are independent or distinct because claims to the different species recite the mutually exclusive characteristics of such species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, there are no generic claims.

There is an examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would not likely be applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
